GAME WARDENS ARREST FOUR

Quartette of East Berlin Men Nabbed For Giggling on Conewago.

FINES MAY REACH $100

Arrested by Game Protectors Bushman and Stevens and Deputy Sheriff Hess. Aliens Fined $297.

While giggling in Conewago creek near East Berlin at 12:15 o'clock Sunday morning, Raymond Cronister, Henry Hamme, Jacob Grove and Albert Kimmell, all middle aged residents of East Berlin, were suddenly pounced upon by Leo Bushman, Adams county game warden; William C. Stevens, York county game warden; and John Hess, deputy sheriff of York county.

As the result of their being caught in the act of spearing fish, the four East Berlin men will appear at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Peter Smith.

This evening is the scheduled time of the hearing.

For several days the game authorities in this section had been on the look out for giggers reported to be operating in the Conewago. Saturday night Warden Bushman and Stevens chose the section from Brown's mill to Eisenhart's mill for their patrol and by chance happened to spy the East Berlin quartet.

The fact that they were giggling a week before the season may cost the four men a total of $100. After July first giggling with an official permit is permissible.

Hamme, Grove and Kimmell are liable to $20 apiece while Cronister can be fined $10 extra for spearing bass and $25 extra for catching frogs with a light. The great majority of the fish the men had were "sunnies" and suckers.

Warden Bushman is also keeping a sharp look out for men who are catching fish by means of seines. This is prohibited in Pennsylvania at all times and is punishable by a fine of $100.

Last week Game Protectors Bushman and Stevens, Charles Baum, traveling game protector of eight counties; and Warden Albert Lightner, of Dauphin county, toured York county and arrested eleven unaturalized aliens, confiscating dogs which two of them had and guns carried by the other nine. These arrests were made in accordance with a law forbidding aliens to carry guns or have dogs. Each of the eleven was brought before Alderman Garver in York and fined $25 plus costs of $2.

POURS BOOZE INTO SEWER

Ten Gallons Of Whisky Laid To Waste By Rudisill.

Unknown to thirsty hundreds who witnessed a similar event in Harrisburg some months ago, ten gallons of perfectly good red liquor went gurgling into the Gettysburg sewer this morning.

Arriving here unnoticed by the former disciples of old King Alcohol Andrew Rudisill, prohibition enforcement officer, went to the postoffice and was presented with a five gallon cask and five jugs of whisky by Postmaster Duncan. This cask and the jugs were seized by state troopers several months ago at the residence of William Lower, near Table Rock.

Failing to offer a glass of the coveted fluid to the postmaster or to any of the members of the force, Agent Rudisill wisely dumped the contents into a pipe leading underground and eventually to Rock Creek. Whereupon one of the post office force ejaculated, "Oh, to be a sewer rat."

DELEGATION TO HANOVER

A large delegation of Odd Fellows from Gettysburg is expected to attend a demonstration in Hanover Wednesday evening when the meeting room of the Hanover lodge is dedicated. There will be a parade, at the conclusion of which members of the York lodge will give a demonstration drill.

FARM WEATHER REPORT

PAUL S. CREAGER WEDS IN JERSEY

Former Instructor Here Takes Illinois Girl as Bride. Member of Rutgers Faculty.

At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon Professor Paul S. Creager, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Creager, of West Middle street, was united in marriage to Miss Orpha Lillian Alden, daughter of the late Charles and Edith Alden, of Shannon, Illinois. Rev. C. R. Van Hook, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of New Brunswick, New Jersey, performed the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother, John Alden, of Newark, New Jersey. Besides relatives, only a few friends were present.

The bride in a white georgette dress, with picture hat to match and carried a large bouquet of white roses, was attended by the bridesmaid, Lillian E. Schneider, who wore pink crepe-de-chine and carried pink roses. The bride was given away by her brother, John Alden.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a beautiful bar pin, and the groom presented his best man, Vernon Hood, of New Brunswick, with a pair of cuff links.

Professor Creager, a graduate of Gettysburg College, in the class of 1913, and for some time instructor in the Physics Department of the institution, is well known here. He is now instructor in Electrical Engineering at Rutgers College, New Brunswick.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, and the young couple left immediately on a honeymoon trip to New York and Boston. After their return they will reside in New Brunswick.

WAR HERO MARRIES

Miss Helen Ott Bride of Lloyd D. Schaeffer, Westminster.

At a quiet wedding at her home in Mercersburg at 11 o'clock this morning, Miss Helen Leshor Ott became the bride of Lloyd D. Schaeffer, of Westminster, Maryland, former Gettysburg College student. The ceremony which was performed by Rev. Mr. Repass was witnessed by only the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. Schaeffer is numbered among Gettysburg's most enthusiastic alumni and motors here from Westminster for all important athletic events. Six years ago he attended college here as a member of the class of 1917 but at the end of his Sophomore year left the institution to enter business. He is now the head of the firm of Schaeffer and Mowen, dealers in pipeless furnaces and farm implements.

During the World War Mr. Schaeffer made an enviable record. As an aviator with the French Escadrille he brought four German planes to earth, receiving six medals in recognition of his feats. While fighting fourteen German planes single handed he was wounded four times, narrowly escaping death.

His bride also has many friends in Gettysburg, having accompanied Mr. Schaeffer here to dances for the past few years.

RABBITS PLENTIFUL

Would Continue Closed Season On Ring Necked Pheasants

There will be a bumper crop of rabbits for the fall hunting season, according to the observations of Game Warden Leo Bushman and sportsmen who have traveled about the county.

Indications are there will be a big supply of ring necked pheasants, the season for which is to open this year. A movement is on foot, however, to petition the State Game Commission to prohibit the shooting of these birds for two years more in this county. It is pointed out that many of these pheasants are tame and in one open season they would practically be exterminated.

DEER IN WHEAT FIELDS

Traces of deer in wheat fields are found by farmers harvesting their grain in this section. The wheat, broken down, shows where the animals rested during night. They have appeared in certain sections in pairs frequently of late, and appeared very tame, allowing people to get in close range with them. They are seen browsing about the grass and grain fields.

GOOD news for the farmer. You can get Dr. Hudson's "Sure Colic Cure", at most all stores.—advertisement 1

SCHOOL BOARDS HAVE ELECTED

More Than Half of Teachers For Next Year Are Chosen.

SEEMS TO BE NO SCARCITY

Ten Districts Announce List Completed. Others Have Vacancies to Fill. Plan Summer Examination.

Approximately fifty per cent of the school boards in Adams county have completed the election of teachers for next year, according to the reports that have come in to the office of the county superintendent of schools. A number of the boards have one or two vacancies to fill and in practically every instance there are one or more applicants.

School authorities are now planning for the usual series of examinations for the various teachers certificates. These will be held during July and August but the exact dates have not been determined.

With the election of teachers practically completed, earlier indications that there would be no scarcity of applicants this year, have been fulfilled. Increased salaries and a longer term in the rural schools of the fourth district have had the effect of attracting many new teachers as well as those who had left the profession for other lines of endeavor.

The following school boards have announced the election for all of their schools:

Abbotstown: John A. Hale, principal; Beulah E. Wentz, grammar; Nellie K. Eisenhart, primary.

Biglerville: Conrad C. Muehe, principal; Ruth A. McIlhenny, Eva C. Deardorff, high school; Esta L. Slaybaugh, Chloe B. Asper and Rev. Harry C. Kottler, grades; Bess K. Raffensperger, primary.

Conewago township: J. Francis Yake, Thomas J. Bankert, M. Iona Yake, Fairy Straley, Grace E. Myers, Katherine T. Hufnagle, Lawrence E. Smith, Edna C. Bowman.

East Berlin: Raymond C. Fissel, principal; Colson R. Shelly, grammar; Mary C. Reynolds, secondary; A. Pauline Miller, primary.

Fairfield: John L. Stock, principal; Charles A. Landis, high school; Loretta Sharretts, grammar; Martha W. Witherow, primary.

McSherrystown, Jeremiah W. Thomas.

New Oxford: C. W. Helman, principal, Lottie Hulich, high school; Ray J. Sponseller, Elmira Ruff, and Anna M. Myers, grades.

FOOTBALL CAPTAIN KILLED

Automobile Which Turned Turtle Broke Muhlenburg Leaders Back.

Raymond E. Snyder, captain-elect of the Muhlenburg College football team which will play Gettysburg next fall, died at the Allentown hospital Sunday night from injuries received in an automobile accident early Sunday morning near Palma, Montgomery county.

Snyder was driving a car owned by a fellow student, Horace T. Schuler, of East Texas, when it struck the side of a bridge spanning the Perkiomen creek. Though the three other occupants of the car, Schuler, Miles Stroup and Miss Bertie Morrison, escaped with slight injuries, Snyder's back was broken when he was crushed under the car when it turned on its side. The dead athlete was twenty-two years old and was the most popular student in the college.

KEEN INTEREST IN FIGHT RESULT

Gettysburg Fans Expectantly Await July 2 Outcome. A Few Are Going.

Scenes which took place in Gettysburg in 1915 when Jack Johnson, the wily negro, fell in Havana before the powerful punch of Jess Willard, Kansas cowboy, and four years later when that same cowboy hit the ring floor seven times in one round as the result of impact with the terrific punches of Jack Dempsey, will be repeated next Saturday. On that day in a sun scorched arena erected in the heart of Jersey City, Dempsey will defend his title against George Carpentier, idol of France, in a bout which has aroused more interest here than any since 1910 when James J. Jeffries disappointed the sporting world by failing to "come back."

So that the fight fans of Gettysburg may know the outcome of the Jersey City battle a few minutes after its conclusion, The Times today concluded negotiations with the Associate Press for special service, giving not only the winner but a resume of each round. Unless some undue delay arises in the Jersey bowl The Times will carry the name of the winner in its Saturday afternoon town edition.

Refusing to be satisfied with a round by round account of the bout some of the more enthusiastic pugilistic followers of Gettysburg have already secured their tickets from Promoter Tex Richard and intend to form a part of the crowd of 50,000 which will fill the huge bowl when the two combatants respond to the opening gong.

Jersey City is the closest to Gettysburg that a world's heavyweight championship bout has been held this century. Dempsey beat Willard at Toledo, Willard defeated Johnson in Havana and Johnson trimmed Jeffries in Reno.

INJURED BY BINDER

Elvin Patterson Caught in Machine While Stopping Horses.

Elvin Patterson, son of Elias Patterson, of Route 1, near Gettysburg, was injured on his father's farm Saturday afternoon and taken to the Warner Hospital where he was admitted at 3 o'clock.

He was standing near the binder when the horses started off. Reaching for the check line, he was caught and held against the guard. He was dragged over the ground for some distance before the horses could be stopped.

He was taken to the hospital at once, where it was discovered that his injuries, while painful, consisted only of lacerations of the lower part of the right leg, and were not necessarily serious.

BASS SEASON TO OPEN ON FRIDAY

Local Fishermen Will Turn Attention to Pennsylvania Streams.

MANY WENT TO MARYLAND

New Fish License Law Not Effective Until Next Year. Weather Conditions Not Good.

Gettysburg anglers who have been going into Maryland to fish for bass since the season in that state opened last month will turn their attention to streams nearer home after the first of July, when it is lawful to catch bass in Pennsylvania. Bass fishing in Maryland has been good, devotees of the sport here say, a number of excellent catches having been made in the Monocacy during the past few weeks.

Because of the drought and moonlight nights conditions for bass fishing has not been the best, experts with the hook and line say. Under these conditions the fish find food easily and hence are not easily lured by the baited hook.

Another week may bring forth much, however, and if rain comes, followed by cloudy water that might clear by the opening date, coupled with the fact that the bright moon will have passed, ideal conditions will prevail.

Devotees of the rod and line may well have high hopes, for persons who have been observing the Conewago bring encouraging reports. On these bright nights the fish may be seen feeding and playing about, as they break water. As usual many giggers are out nightly according to reports, attracted by the low, clear water, and most likely are taking bass along with succors, carp and eels.

The law shows that the season opens July 1 and extends to December 30, both dates inclusive. No fish under 9 inches may be taken. Each fisherman is permitted to take 12.

P. O. S. OF A. HONOR THEIR DEPARTED

Rev. T. C. Hesson Spoke to Arendtsville Lodge Members Sunday.

"Material monuments however costly are insufficient in themselves to preserve the memory of important events or the notable deeds of departed heroes. The stories they commemorate must be told and retold by the living to the living from one generation to another."

These words were spoken by Rev. Theodore C. Hesson, pastor of Zion Reformed Church in Arendtsville, at a special service Sunday morning held under the auspices of the Patriotic Order Sons of America of that town.

Prior to the start of the services which were the result of a request from the state commander of the order, the members of the Arendtsville lodge marched to the cemetery and strewed with flowers the graves of their dead comrades. Upon entering the church they were replenished with flowers by the members of Mrs. Arthur Roberts' Sunday School class.

About one hundred members of the order were present while the Ira Lady American Legion post, invited specially, was represented by one quarter of that number.

Continuing Rev. Mr. Hesson, himself a member of the P. O. S. of A., said: "There is a sense in which every good citizen shares in commemorating the good deeds of our departed brethren. The good men do in carrying out the principles of any order should not be confined to the lodge room. Especially is this true of an order which stands for patriotism. In eulogizing our dead we are therefore paying tribute to our community's departed heroes. The men whose deeds we commemorate today stood for God, our country and our order."

BOARD ORDERS MORE WAGE CUTS

Railroad Employees of Nearly Every Big Company Affected by Order.

IT INVOLVES 210 ROADS

Make Reality of Estimated $400,000,000 Annual Saving When Applied July First.

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, June 27—The United States Railroad Labor Board today extended its wage reduction orders effective July 1 to nearly every large railroad in the country. No change from the average 12 per cent reduction granted 104 carriers on June 1 was made by today's decision. The board's order today covered 210 roads.

Today's reduction order involves nearly all classes of employees on virtually every railroad known as a class one carrier, not included in the board's original reduction order. The class one group included every big road in the country.

The only change in the rate of reductions made by today's decision was in the case of some marine workers.

The new wage decision will make a reality of the estimated $400,000,000 annual saving expected when the board's 12 per cent cut effective July 1 is applied to all employees on all railroads known as class one carriers.

WOMAN ELUDES ARMY OF SLEUTHS

Stenographer, Once Convicted of Murder, Has Disappeared. Police Baffled.

WAS RELEASED ON BAIL

Leaves Knoxville Day Before Court Convened. Murder Followed Joy-Ride. Says She Tried to Defend Self.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 27.—Maude Moore, stenographer, 27 years old, is wanted in Knoxville to answer for the murder of Leroy D. Harth, wealthy automobile dealer, who was shot to death on the night of September 8, 1919, while joy-riding in her company. Her bondsmen offer $2000 for her arrest.

How she has managed to elude officers, making a quick disappearance from cities where it was believed she was definitely located, and this without funds, is a puzzle to local officers. Some of them think she has bobbed her hair, or dyed or bleached it; others declare that a woman of such striking personality as hers would not be effectually disguised by such means. Some of them believe that she is masquerading as a man. There are some who are convinced that she is receiving aid from powerful and wealthy friends, possibly members of organizations to which her late father belonged.

Martin Hunter, who has a wife and child in Idaho, is held in the Knoxville jail as an accessory after the fact. Under the letter of the law Hunter cannot be tried until after the principal has been convicted, even though she should not be apprehended for 10 or 20 years or longer.

Recently his attorneys sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Nelson, and he made an order that, unless Miss Moore is within the jurisdiction of his court on or before July 1, 1921, Hunter is to be allowed to go free. At the same time, he directed that Miss Moore's bondsmen, Robert E. Boring and Edward McNew, pay into the court the amount of the bond.

On the night of September 8, 1919, Miss Moore met Harth on a side street, where he had waited for her in his car, and the joy ride began. Six miles out of the city, about 10.30 at night, Harth stopped his car, there was a short struggle, and a shot was fired. A few minutes later Harth, mortally wounded, staggered onto the porch of a farmer in the neighborhood, saying: "I am shot."

"Who shot you?" the farmer asked. "A woman."

"Who was the woman?" "Maude Moore," Harth is said to have answered.

"Why did she shoot you?" "I don't know, unless it was to rob me," was Harth's feeble response as he sank to the floor and expired.

A physician who came a few minutes later testified that Harth's apparel was in disorder.

"I shot to defend both my honor and my life," Miss Moore told a jury the following December. "He stopped his car, leaped out and grabbed me, dragging me over the steering wheel, bruising my flesh and tearing my clothes. He was carrying my pistol at the time. He had had it in his possession for a week, or since the race rioting in Knoxville. This pistol fell from his coat pocket as he stumbled to his knees after throwing me out of the car. Both of us saw it and made for it. I reached it first, but not until he tried to kick it from me when he saw I was going to get it. I had been taught to use a pistol when a small girl by my father. I knew he would kill me, so I fired. It was my life or his life."

Flees From Scene In Terror
She said she climbed into the car and tried to start it; failing, she fled afoot, fearing that Harth might follow her. He was a man of unusual physique and very strong. In her terror she abandoned the pike and ran through corn fields and hid in culverts at the approach of other cars. Finally reaching the city she went at once to a room occupied by Martin Hunter, who had come here from his home in Indiana Harbor, Ind., in quest of work. Hunter had met Miss Moore and had been much in her company. To Hunter she told her story.

PASTOR RESIGNS

Rev. M. R. Hamsher, graduated from College here in the class of 1904, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, York, for almost seven years, Sunday resigned as pastor of that congregation. His resignation, read at the morning worship of the congregation, came as a surprise.

Announcement of the resignation was made just seven years after the date when Rev. Mr. Hamsher made his first visit to that field and preached his initial, or trial sermon to the congregation of St. Matthew's. He came to York from Etna, Pa., in the Pittsburgh synod of the church. He served there six years.

PREDICT TARIFF BILL WILL PASS

Mondell Confers With Harding. Will Come Up Next Saturday.

Washington, June 27.—Passage of the Tariff Bill by the House before July 20 is predicted both by F. W. Mondell, Republican House leader, who conferred with President Harding, and by J. W. Fordney, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. They also agreed that the Revenue Bill would be taken up immediately on passage of the tariff measure, and Mr. Mondell said the special session of Congress would end when the Tax Bill was enacted.

Mr. Fordney announced the Tariff Bill would be presented formally to the House next Saturday after Democratic committee members had been given an opportunity to consider in full committee the measure framed by the Republican members.

"It may be definitely stated that the committee's work is about completed," he said, "and it is my purpose to call it up in the House immediately after the three-day holiday over July 4. It will be passed not later than July 20, and immediately thereafter the committee will begin hearings on revenue legislation. The people interested in these hearings may count therefore on the start around that date."

Republican members of the House who are preparing for a last-ditch fight against the prohibitive duty on manufactured lumber proposed by Representative Fordney, have reduced their protests to terms easily understood by the hundreds of thousands of prospective home builders in the United States.

With the aid of architects and builders, the opponents of the Fordney tariff plan have estimated the amount of lumber which would go into the average American home in the average American cities and towns and into the average farm buildings if a 25 per cent ad valorem tax is adopted in the guise of reciprocity.

GERMANY SEEKS RUSSIAN TRADE

Financiers Says America Wastes Time By Not Resuming Relations.

TO RECOGNIZE LENINE

Teutons Declare Only German Brains Can Develop Russia Which is Compared to Africa.

Hamburg, June 27.—It is the purpose of German shipping, industrial and banking interests here to take the initiative in carrying on business with Russia. An important step in this direction already has been made by the German-Russian Transport Company, in which the soviet government officially holds a one-half interest, and which will exercise general supervision of rail and water traffic between German ports and Russian destinations.

The new organization has only a nominal capital of 100,000 marks, as it for the present contemplates using only the services of German traffic experts who will serve the soviet government in an advisory capacity, since Russia, by the terms of the agreement, assumes payment of all transportation and operating charges connected with the forwarding of commodities purchased for Russian account in Germany.

To Acknowledge Soviet Rule

A leading member of the Warburg banking house told the Associated Press today that German commercial interests purposed to accept the Moscow regime as it is and as a government. He said he did not look for the early downfall of Nikolai Lenine and Leon Trotsky, and believed their forced disappearance from the government would result in unspeakable chaos.

The banker added he failed to understand why the United States ignored the present soviet administration in Russia. It was his belief, he said, that Leonid Krassin, Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce, should be permitted to enter the United States with the purpose of discussing Russia either officially or privately.

"We believe Russia is becoming more liberal, and are not inclined to share the opinion prevailing in many quarters that the country is being run by radicals," the banker continued. "The Russian problem is so intricate, a solution of it is impossible by any one Power or by private groups. It calls for co-ordination and international collaboration."

The banker said he firmly believed the task of "winning back Russia" could not be accomplished without the active participation of German brains and technical skill.

"Our natural proximity to Russia and our intimate acquaintance with Russian character, accumulated during extensive pre-war activities there, entirely qualify us actively to share in the forthcoming work of reconstruction."

This banker reflected opinions expressed by other leaders of Hamburg's commercial interests who talked on the subject. At the offices of the Hamburg-American Line, which controls the other half-interest in the new German-Russian transport company, there was a feeling of optimism regarding early prospects for an active resumption of trading between Germany and Russia.

Compares Russia to Africa

"There is less reason for being different about going into Russia under present conditions than existed when the European Powers decided to venture into 'Darkest Africa,'" said one of the directors of the Hamburg-American Line.

This man, as well as other German leaders in "big business," who recently talked with Leonid Krassin, said they were impressed with the personality and candor of the Russian.

"We talked business only," said the Hamburg-American Line director. "We did not discuss the future policy of the Moscow Government or the possible prospects of a new regime there."

UPHOLD POLISH REBELS IN REPORT

Head of Interallied Commission Makes Statement to French Commission.

Berlin, June 27.—General Lerond, head of the Interallied Commission in Upper Silesia, forwarded on June 15 a secret report to the French commission to the French Government as well as to the Poles. Insurgents, he said, were receiving shipments of arms and munitions from Germany, and also the support of the Orghesch party in Bavaria, which was trying to build up a similar military machine in Prussia.

For this reason, General Lerond, according to the Lokal Anzeiger, which publishes what is said to be a translation of the full text of the report, declared it would be wrong to force the Poles to withdraw, "because in that case the Interallied Commission would not have a sufficient force to disarm the German volunteers."

Lerond is said to have made the following suggestions, which the note asserts were agreed to by the other Entente representatives:

Lerond's Recommendations

That Adelbert Korfanty, leader of the Polish insurgents, should strengthen his forces in the territory the insurgents hold, secure better discipline and give undivided and prompt obedience to "our secret commands."

That Allied troops be concentrated at strategic points to prevent the Germans from organizing a continuous battlefield.

That Allied forces must be increased until they are able immediately to disarm the German volunteers.

Lerond also urged the necessity of an espionage system, with headquarters at Thorn or Danzig, to counteract the work of German spies. He also suggested withdrawal of the Italian troops, "because they have suffered losses at the hands of the Poles, and are now inimical to the insurgents." He advised the Berlin mission to institute rigorous control over German-Russian trade, which, he said, was flowing across the Lithuanian border.

TRIAL OF PLAYERS BEGUN IN-CHICAGO

Seven White Sox in Criminal Court Charged With Throwing Series.

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, June 27.—Ten of the 18 baseball players and alleged gamblers indicted in connection with the World's Series scandal of 1919 were in court today when their cases went to trial before Judge Hugo Friend of the criminal court.

Seven of the 8 suspended Chicago White Sox, Felsch, Cicotte, Williams, Jackson, Gandil, Weaver and Risberg were in court but Fred McMullin, the other indicted player, did not appear. His attorneys stated that he would appear whenever the court ordered him to. He is not under bond.

The investigation into alleged gambling, bribery and game throwing in major league baseball was opened officially in September, 1920, when Judge Charles A. McDonald, chief justice of the Criminal Court, charged the Cook County grand jury with looking into reports which had come to his attention concerning fixed games.

The grand jury investigation which followed proved the most sensational in the sports history. It finally resulted in the indictment of eight members of the world's champions Chicago White Sox, two former major league players, two alleged gamblers and a former world champion pugilist on charges that they had conspired for the White Sox to throw the 1919 world series to the Cincinnati Reds, and that some White Sox players accepted bribes ranging as high as $10,000 to deliberately lose games in that series.

JUDGE UPHOLDS PICKFORD SUIT

Efforts of Nevada State Attorney General Unsuccessful. Second Marriage Legal.

Reno, Nev., June 26—The effort of the State Attorney General to have the divorce decree of Mary Pickford from Owen Moore set aside failed in Minden Saturday afternoon when District Judge Langan granted a motion to quash the summons in the Attorney General's proceedings.

Mary Pickford was granted her decree in Minden March 20, 1920, by Judge Langan and, in a short time, was married to Douglas Fairbanks in Los Angeles.

Testifying at the divorce trial, Miss Pickford said she had come to Nevada February 15, 1920, for the benefit of her health. She charged Mr. Moore with desertion and cruelty. Mr. Moore was not present at the hearing and did not contest, although on the day before he was served with the summons in Douglas County, in which Minden is located. Miss Pickford testified she did not know Mr. Moore was in Nevada at the time. Following the divorce both left the State.

Nearly one month later on April 16, after Miss Pickford and Mr. Fairbanks were married, the Attorney General filed an action here asking that the decree be set aside "in the interests of the State of Nevada." He charged Mr. Moore and Miss Pickford with "fraud and collusion," and declared Judge Langan had no jurisdiction in the case as both principals were residents of Los Angeles, and charged the marriage of Miss Pickford and Mr. Fairbanks was part of a "fraudulent plan concocted by the defendants." The Attorney General's action was predicted, he declared, on the principle that the State "reserves interest in all divorce cases."

Attorneys for Miss Pickford asserted the Attorney General had no authority under Nevada laws to bring his action and declared that if the principle on which the State's suit was predicted was sustained, the Attorney General could review all divorce cases ever granted in Nevada. They asserted the divorce was legal in every way and denied there was collusion.

BANK'S LOSS MAY REACH $200,000

Long Lines of Depositors Crowd About Lancaster Institution. Accounts Badly Tangled.

Lancaster, Pa., June 27—Charles D. Zell, formerly treasurer of the Agricultural Trust Co., this city, which was closed by the State Department of Banking Thursday, abstracted more than $209,000 in Liberty Bonds and negotiable papers from the bank, according to John S. Fisher, State Commissioner of Banking, who is here investigating the conditions of the company.

The bonds were given to Mr. Zell for safekeeping by numerous persons, and he used them, it is said, in his speculative operations. He concedes, it is said by the authorities, the misappropriation of that sum. A visit to Mr. Zell in the county jail was made Saturday morning prior to a search of his apartments. No securities were found secreted in the house.

The banking commissioner announced Saturday the appointment of Charles H. Graff as deputy receiver. According to the provisions of the State laws, the Commissioner is made receiver of banking institutions which are forced to suspend business. Mr. Fisher said the investigation would be pushed to the fullest extent, "let the chips fall where they may."

Juggling the accounts of depositors, the alleged forging of a name to a check, the misappropriation of Liberty Bonds left for conversion and exchange, and the execution of orders for the purchase of securities which were paid for out of savings accounts but never delivered are some of the features of the treasurer's juggling revealed by recent investigations.

One of the victims of Mr. Zell's speculations is E. D. Sensing, Clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Lancaster. He states he left his bank book to be balanced and among the checks was one made out on another bank. He alleges the check was a forgery. When he protested to the treasurer he was told it would be investigated. The check was never returned.

Mr. Fisher said if the capital of the bank is impaired, the taking over of the company's business might be possible. "But in a tangle such as this," he explained, "it is hard to tell what will happen."

Lines of depositors extended far down the streets in front of the bank Saturday morning. They had with them bank books, which they left with clerks who received them for balance.

The depreciation in the value of Liberty Bonds which the company bought was another factor mentioned by an official in connection with the bank's embarrassment. "The depreciation of Liberty Bonds which were assigned to us as our quota amounts to $60,000," he said. "The bank bought about $400,000 in Liberty Bonds."

ENGLAND SEEKS IRISH PEACE

Lloyd George Sends Message to De Valera Expressing Government's Position.

London, June 27—Premier Lloyd George has sent a letter to both Eamon de Valera, the Irish Republican leader, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, declaring the British Government to be deeply anxious that King George's appeal for reconciliation in Ireland shall not have been made in vain. The letter appeals for a conference between representatives of the Government and Southern and Northern Ireland, so that the opportunity for a settlement in Ireland shall not be lost.

The letter, which is dated June 24, is couched in identical terms to both Mr. de Valera and Sir James, except for necessary verbal changes.

"The British Government," it says, "are deeply anxious that, as far as they can assure it, the King's appeal for reconciliation shall not have been made in vain. Rather than allow another opportunity for settlement in Ireland to be cast aside they feel it incumbent on them to make a final appeal in the spirit of the King's words for a conference between themselves and representatives of Southern and Northern Ireland."

"I write, therefore, to convey the following invitation to you as the chosen leader of the great majority in Southern Ireland, and to Sir James Craig, Premier of Northern Ireland: First, that you should attend a conference here in London, in company with Sir James Craig, to explore to the utmost the possibility of a settlement; second, that you should bring with you for that purpose any colleagues whom you may select. The Government will, of course, give safe conduct to all who may be chosen to participate in the conference."

"We make this invitation with the fervent desire to end the ruinous conflict which for centuries has divided Ireland and embittered the relations of the peoples of these two islands, who ought to live in neighborly harmony with each other and whose co-operation would mean so much not only to the empire, but to humanity. We wish that no endeavor should be lacking on our part to realize the King's prayer and we ask you to meet us as we will meet you, in spirit of conciliation, for which His Majesty appealed."

"I am sir, your obedient servant, "D. Lloyd George."

LAWS HALT FUNERAL

Chicago, June 27—Labor union laws backed by a gang of husky "educators," Saturday halted the funeral of a woman and nearly precipitated a panic.

Mrs. Nicola Ludeca's son had employed a band composed of Italian musicians who are employed as shoemakers, peddlers and in other occupations. The band marched to the house and began to play. Ralph O'Hara, business agent of the Musicians' Union, appeared soon after and notified Peter Ludeca, the son, that he would have to hire a union band or there would be no funeral. Two hundred members of the San Giacomo Society were present and pleaded that they could not march without music. "You'll dismiss this band or there'll be no funeral," was the final dictum by O'Hara.

The crowd had grown to thousands and matters looked threatening. A riot call was sent in and the police told the agents of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs' Union, who were backing up O'Hara, they would have to get away from the house and let the funeral proceed, whereupon all the drivers leaped from their seats and left the cars and hearse deserted. On advice of the police the family finally dismissed the band and the union chauffeurs then returned and the funeral proceeded.

MARRIAGE A POTENT

Sunbury, Pa., June 27—A so-called death-bed marriage proved to be a drug more potent than any doctor's medicines for Norman A. Shuman, who, when thought to be dying at his home here, took for his bride, Miss Elizabeth K. Kern, to whom he was pledged to be wedded before he was stricken with what was considered a fatal illness. Shuman is much better, taking a turn immediately after the wedding, according to friends, and is now on the way to recovery.

When Shuman thought the death angel hovered near he asked the Rev. Dr. A. W. Brownmiller, of the First United Evangelical Church, to get him a marriage license. John I. Carr, clerk of the marriage license bureau rushed the docket to his bedside and the permit to wed was granted. Then the pastor in hushed tones said the words that joined the two for a lifetime that was expected for the one to be but a few hours.

TWO DROWN IN POND

New York, June 27—The shouts and splashing of eight-year-old Edward Anderson were mistaken Saturday for the cries of a drowning lad, and two workmen of Elizabeth, N. J., Paul Saps and Michael Sosenk, plunged into a pond on Staten Island to rescue him.

The boy, thinking the men were going to arrest him swam to the bank. When he looked back at the water there was no one in sight.

Two policemen later recovered the bodies of Saps and Sosenk from the bottom of the pond. It is believed that cramps seized them.

WANTS DIVORCE ANNULLED

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 27—Charging that Edward Van Heusen, general manager of the Boli Theatrical interests, with offices in New York, who is known in theatrical circles as Edward Renton, obtained a divorce from her by fraud, Fannie Van Heusen has started action in the courts here to set aside the decree, the success of which would annul Renton's marriage to Grace Huff, an actress who played in stock in the Poli Circuit for several seasons.

Judge H. A. Fuller has granted a rule to show cause why the divorce shall not be set aside.

CLEAN 'EM OUT!

STREET'S CURB MARKET MOVES IN

Picturesque "Outside" Dealers in Financial District Have Spacious Quarters.

New York, June 27—After several decades of nomadic existence along the main highway of the financial district, the "outside market", corporately known as the New York Curb Association, today moved into its own spacious quarters on the western fringe of Wall Street.

For the first time in its long and picturesque history "the curb" to quote one of its chief officials, "will cease to have the sky as its roof and will find shelter within its own four walls."

The new building of the New York Curb Market, now virtually completed at a cost of about $2,250,000, including the ground, is an impressive structure located on Trinity Place, directly back of the famous Trinity graveyard and extending westward to Greenwich street.

Already the executive offices of the association have been installed and although the financial district is passing through a period of post-war depression the guiding spirits of the curb believe the new headquarters will mark the beginning of a new and prosperous career.

Of the entire membership as now constituted—variously estimated at 400 to 600—almost 25 per cent of the old guard of veteran members have threatened to hold aloof and continue their operations in the roadway of Broad Street.

This faction may find itself balked, however, by the attitude of the city authorities. The police long ago found it necessary to "corral" the members within an irregular square, because their increasing numbers obstructed street traffic.

These fashions come from Paris. It does not matter whether you are going in for the high Spanish headdress or are wearing your hair in the low roll, the comb is the thing that fashion decrees. Combs are being shown in all sizes and shapes, the bigger the better. The immense comb shown in the top picture is of ornate design and is used by fashionable Paris to top off an elaborate coiffure. The wide comb in the lower picture is worn in France with the simple bun, the hair being smoothly combed back from the forehead.

SOON TIME TO GET PETITIONS

Period Between July 2 And August 11 For Judicial Candidates.

Circulation of nomination petitions for aspirants for judicial and constitutional delegate nominations to be made at the September primary will be in order next Saturday, the period of circulating petitions being from July 2 to August 11. Numerous inquiries as to the law have come to the State Bureau of Elections, and it is expected the blank petitions will be in hand before the day of circulation. The printing has been held up because of the strike of the printers.

According to George D. Thorn, chief of the State Bureau, candidates for State-wide nominations, such as Justice of the Supreme Court, must have 100 signers in each of five counties, although as a general rule State-wide candidates have many from the majority of the counties, and judicial candidates must have 100 signatures of citizens of their districts.

The candidates for delegate to the Constitutional Convention, in event that one is authorized by the people at the September primary, when the question will be submitted, will have to secure a minimum of 200 signatures in the congressional district wherein they reside. There will be three delegates elected from each congressional district. As in the case of Judges, selections will be on a party basis.

Arrangements are being made for certification of the question of the Constitutional Convention to the County Commissioners for placing on the ballot. This will be done late in August, when nominations are certified.

SEVERE STORM NEARBY

Trees Uprooted and Wires Down in Hagerstown Section.

Telephone service was crippled for many hours and trees were uprooted by the severe wind and electric storm which swept through the northern section of Washington county, Maryland, late Sunday afternoon. Notwithstanding the fact that the lightning was unusually severe, no damage from this source was reported.

The storm came at the end of another hot day, during which the mercury soared to 96 degrees and the humidity made the day almost unbearable. The storm was very similar in appearance to the one that visited the county about a week ago. Preceding the downpour and heavy wind were dark clouds which rose out of the northwest. Hagerstown only got the southern-most end of the storm and while it rained hard there and the wind was strong, there was very little lightning.

Lines All Out

Nearly every telephone line out of the city was dead for hours last night, the city being virtually cut off from the outside world.

FESTIVALS IN COUNTY

Of the numerous festivals held throughout the county Saturday night reports have been received from the following:

The Boys Camping Club held a festival on the school house grounds in Bendersville, at which eighty dollars were taken in, of which about forty are profit.

At Biglerville Saturday evening the Girls Scouts cleared eighty dollars of the one hundred and thirty taken in. The Baseball Club at Orrtanna held a festival attended by about 250, at which $78 were taken in, half of which is clear profit.

FIND TOOTH OF GREAT FISH

Los Angeles, June 27—A tooth of some prehistoric fish so large as to indicate its owner's size was near that of an ocean liner, has been found among other fossils in the lime pits at Torrance, here. About one third of the tooth is missing. The portion found weighs nearly two pounds, is five inches long, four inches across the base and almost two inches thick. Many bones of prehistoric animals are daily being taken from the pits.

ARCADIANS BEAT FAIRFIELD

Armor And Swope Engaged in Pretty Pitching Duel.

Staging a rally in the eighth and coming from behind a 2-0 score the Arcadian Club team of Gettysburg won their first victory of the season from Fairfield by a 5-3 score on Saturday at Fairfield.

The game was fast and was featured by brilliant fielding on both sides. Fairfield scored first in the fourth by a passed ball, a stolen base and a hit. They tallied again in the 5th on two successive doubles.

Thus with the score 2-0 the Arcadians scored four runs on Swope's single, a pass to Leister and successive hits by Oyler, Deardoff and Brady Armor. In the ninth they added one more on two successive hits.

The game brought together numerous school stars. "Hen" Musselman, the heavy hitting Maroon and White outfielder of last season, was in left field for Fairfield but could only find his old teammate "Bucky" Armor for one hit.

For the Arcadians the work of the battery, B. Armor and Peters, was a feature as was the playing of Leister, H. Armor, Oyler and Shover. For Fairfield Swope's work in the box was excellent. The game developed into a duel between him and Armor. Swope struck out twelve but walked three and was touched for ten hits while Armor whiffed eight, walked one and was found for but five hits. The team was piloted by Assistant Manager George Hunter and "Si" Flagle, former Gettysburg scoutmaster.

BREAM'S DOUBLE WON

McKnightstown-Cashtown Team Beat Orrtanna Saturday, 7-5.

In the sixth inning with the bases full and the score 3-1 in favor of Orrtanna, Johnny Bream, Gettysburg College home run hitter in 1915, connected for a double and cleaned the sacks for McKnightstown-Cashtown club. Final score M and C 7—Orrtanna 5.

A crowd of three hundred people witnessed the game on the M and C grounds near Flohr's Church. Both clubs played well in the field, four errors being recorded. This victory of M and C evened the series as the previous Saturday Orrtanna beat M and C at Orrtanna, 7-3.

Batteries: Baltzley and Cluck for M and C; Chapman and Shindeldecker for Orrtanna. Umpire: Bob Bream.

Keep Up Winning Streak At Expense Of Bonneauville Nine.

Try Copying This One!

Here is a charmingly fresh little summer dress which you dressmaker can copy for you from this photograph. You might even try it yourself if you are clever with scissors and needle. It is a challis frock with organdie under-dress set off quaintly with bows of picot ribbon. The tiny rosebuds are the same shade of pink as the frock. The vest has a shirred cord top and puffed sleeves above the elbows finish the short kimono sleeves. Betty Carpenter of Paramount Pictures is wearing it.

show there are no communities of 2,500 or more population.

These counties are Forest, Fulton, Juniata, Perry, Pike, Snyder, Sullivan and Wyoming and their total population is 102,001. Altogether however, the State has 3,112,202 residents—35.7 per cent of the total population of 8,702,017—who live outside of urban districts.

While Pennsylvania has thirty-nine communities classed as cities, it has 170 which have a population of 5,000 or more each, a gain in the period from 1910 to 1920 of twenty-three. In addition there are 114 in which the population is between 2,500 and 5,000.

A feature indicating the drift of the population from the smaller to the larger communities during the ten-year period is the fact that whereas there were 658 boroughs each with less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900 there were 659 in 1920. During the period from 1900 to 1910, however, there was an increase in this class of communities from 643 to 668. There are 933 incorporated boroughs in the State.

MAN STABBED TO DEATH

Fight Results In One Being Held For Murder.

Belleville, Pa., June 27—Frank Benedict, of Clearfield, was brought to the Centre county jail Sunday, charged with the murder of a Blue Ball man named Shaw in Phillipsburg Saturday night. The killing took place in front of the Continental Hotel, on one of the main streets of the town. The two men had an altercation, and Benedict, it is said, stabbed Shaw, who died before morning.

This is the second murder in Centre county within ten days, the other victim being the old soldier, George M. Mark at Hannah Furnace. Although more than a week has passed since his body was discovered not a single trace has been found of his murderer or murderers, even though State police and other officers have spent much time on the investigation, nor has the instrument with which the deed was done been found.

SAW SMUGGLER PAROLED

Uniontown, Pa., June 27—Because District Attorney Miller told the Court that Miss Margaret Lyons, aged 21, of Leisenring, No. 1, who admitted smuggling steel saws to Sidney Stahl in the county jail, was only a "tool" of Stahl and George Monaghan, who sawed seven bars in their cell, but were discovered before they could escape, the Court ordered here under a two-year parole.

The girl admitted secreting a dozen steel saws in buns and passing them to Stahl, to whom she is engaged to be married. For many years the girl has been employed in a Connellsville store.

SIZE JUST RIGHT

Sunbury, Pa., June 27—"Mister, do you want to buy a pair of shoes cheap?" asked a fair-haired young woman of High Constable Victor Koble Sunday. "How much?" answered Koble. "Five dollars." "What size?" "What's your size?" "Seven," said Koble. "That's right," she replied. Koble passed over the $5 and went to City Hall, where he opened the box to look at his prize.

"Seven was right," said Victor afterwards: "it was a seven-ounce flask of the stuff they sold in the good old bar-gone days." Not being a drinker himself, he took it to the bank, and put it in his safe deposit box, he said.

PRIVATE STILL EXPLODES

Wilkes-Barre, June 27—When a private still in his cellar exploded, Joseph A. Fryer, aged 35, of Parsons, near here, was showered with burning whisky and died later of his injuries. SIMILAR NAMES ARE CONFUSING

Movie Star Angry When Named As Wife of Army Man.

New York, June 27—Doubles and troubles are two words that do more than rhyme in the case of Jean Sothorn, the moving picture actress. Her woes as a double came to a climax with the statement by a witness in the military court at Governors Island that she is the wife of Captain Beverly Chew, now being tried in the court for numerous crimes. Mrs. Chew, incidentally, was indicted last December on a charge of grand larceny.

The solution of the mystery is simply that there are two Jean Sothorns and that both of them are on the stage. One is the legal wife of Captain Chew and, it is alleged, the victim of another woman who poses as the wife of her husband. The other is the blonde young Jean Sothorn known far and near as a moving picture actress. The one is barely 20 and has never been engaged.

The identification in court yesterday succeeded in upsetting the latter Jean and when interviewed today she declared: "I am awfully mad. All my friends have been telephoning me and asking me if I am Captain Chew's wife. My booking office called me up. 'Why, everybody knows that I have never been married. I never have been engaged and I never expect to be. I never saw Captain Chew in my life. No person who ever saw me mistook me for the other woman.'"

STATE RAISES MARRIAGE TAX

NEBUCHADNEZZAR

Ashley sat at the desk in his den. He had not yet actually settled down to work, for the door stood ajar and he was still exploring his portfolio and setting papers in order before him.

Voices floated down the staircase, his wife's subdued, his son's deep and vibrant. Ashley's lips expanded in a satisfied smile.

"Have you thought, Gordon, of the effect this will have upon your father, and perhaps upon your prospects?" Mrs. Ashley asked.

"Yes," answered the young man. "I have yielded to father in choosing business instead of a profession. In this I cannot yield."

"He will be disappointed," the mother said gravely.

Gordon laughed shortly at this mild statement.

"I am a man now, mother, and this is a matter in which one man may not command another. I love Alice."

"We've played together summers down at Wheatfield ever since we were kids, and I always liked her best," he finished, boyishly.

His voice changed to a harsher tone.

"Father is ruining his life and ours," he said, sternly. "Everything that is his is touched by the blight of his overbearing temper. It is wearing you out. I can see it. Marjorie's happiness was sacrificed to his ambition. Dick was forced into congenial employment. We've all kept in for your sake, but some day there'll be a mighty smash. There never was a man who thought himself omnipotent, since the days of Nebuchadnezzar, that the Almighty didn't humble him."

At the look on his mother's face, he added, contritely:

"Forgive me, mother. I shouldn't have said it."

They moved away.

Ashley sat motionless. That merciless indictment from Gordon, his hope and pride! It was a full half-hour before he arose, closed the door and locked it. He dropped into his chair and laid his head upon his folded arms.

"Allie Betty Kent down in Wheatfield!"

That must be Alice Elizabeth's daughter. In the days when Wheatfield had been his home, Alice Elizabeth's name had not been Kent, but Courtney.

After a few moments, he raised his head, unlocked a drawer and took out a box. From the box he drew a shabby pocketbook, and from this, in turn, a tiny, yellowed silk bag. He untied its string and shook the contents out upon the blotter—a circlet of braided sweet grass, dry and brittle, and a gold ring set with a small diamond.

He remembered the day he had braided the grass and measured Alice Elizabeth's finger.

They sat under the maples on the river bank. The sun sent golden shafts of light through the trees to fall upon her yellow hair. She had insisted upon having the braided ring to keep and had made the little silk bag for it, the very evening he had placed the diamond on her finger.

He remembered, too, the evening nearly two years later, when she had given them back. He recalled fragments of the conversation.

"You have grown so hard."

"Nothing matters except having your own way, and it does not matter that your way is not always right."

"I do not dare to risk life with you."

"Please try to change, or I fear you will some day be a lonely, wretched old man."

His hurt had been deep. He could not destroy the rings, but had hidden them.

Thirty-five years, and he had not changed. If tonight were any criterion, he was on his way to the lonely, wretched old age she had prophesied.

A rap sounded at the door. With the pitiful diamond still clasped in his hand, Ashley unlocked it.

Gordon came in, his shoulders squared. "I wasn't sure you had come home," he said. "Are you too busy to listen to me for a few moments?"

Ashley pushed back his papers.

"Go ahead," he said, gruffly.

Gordon came straight to the point. "I'm engaged to be married, father. I thought it best to tell you."

Ashley was silent. Gordon stumbled on. "It is Allie Betty Kent. She lives in Wheatfield, where we used to go summers." He waited, tense, for the expected outburst.

"In Wheatfield," mused his father. "Must be Alice Courtney's daughter."

"She is," answered the young man. Relieved, he sat on the corner of the desk and picked up a circle of dried grass that lay there, nervously breaking it to bits and laying the bits upon the platter. Ashley winced.

"Probably better than you deserve," he growled. "See that you treat her well. Now clear out."

Gordon went.

"Dismissed with a blessing," he remarked in helpless astonishment.

Left alone, Ashley swept the bits of dried grass into the waste basket. He put the diamond away, closing the door with a bang.

"Perhaps," he said to the four walls, "I shall not need so large a dose of grass as Nebuchadnezzar."

When I was younger, Mabel, I'd very often sigh While sitting at the table "Why don't you cut the pie?"

Shirt Economy

People think in terms of economy nowadays. So in buying shirts economy means quite a lot. If you picked these shirts for wearing quality alone they would be very economical. But they give you a lot more—choice new patterns, unusual colorings—everything is done from start to finish that is necessary to make good shirts.

"EXTRAVAGANCE"

From the story by Ben Ames Williams "MORE STATELY MANSIONS" in Good Housekeeping.

A swim in a dinner gown that cost three times her allowance, after a party she couldn't afford to give, in a house her husband couldn't pay for: this was but one of Nancy Vane's thoughtlessly perverse escapades. And yet you'll like Nancy, so really portrayed by May Allison in "Extravagance," even though you may not approve of her—at first.
